

- parenting classes, visitation, etc. Play w/ kids and ~~do~~ more dad things → changing their gender values and creating informal social bonds
 - * Security Dads → nationwide for highschool. Learning from volunteer dads that are around to help out and learn proper/better dad values → mixed results, dads are free during the work day, often are not as good as those that probably have jobs

Labeling Theory → Challenges "Sticks and Stones"

- Symbolic Interactionism | early 1900's
 - George Herbert Mead, I.W. Thomas, and Cooley
 - the world is made of symbols and communication
 - ↳ words, facial expressions, behaviors, signs → arbitrary constructs that we interpret and act or behave in a certain way as a result
- arrow vs. alligator
- we interact with these symbols constantly throughout the day. These symbols can tell us how we're supposed to behave
- * Basketball: you know what to do because you know the rules of the game and can predict future behaviors based on plays/moves etc.
- important considering collective efficacy → symbols represented must be standardized
